

Meet the Kindergarten Teacher

Hi, my name is Janell Lamperti. I am excited to be your child's Kindergarten teacher. I love teaching kindergarten and I can truly say there is something special about St. Aloysius. We are not only a school but also a family.

I hold a Bachelor of Science in Psychology from Kutztown University and studied Early Childhood Education at Eastern University. I am certified to teach grades Pre-K to 4 in the state of Pennsylvania. I have taught at St Aloysius, St Mary's Catholic School, and Holy Family School. My husband, Alex, and I are members of St. Aloysius Parish. We have 3 children Braden, Nolan and Lexi.

I LOVE teaching, especially the youngest learners! When I am not busy with school work I enjoy reading, gardening, baseball, spending time with my family, and the beach. During the summer you will most likely find me at a ball field somewhere watching one of my children play. I also love searching for new exciting ideas for my classroom, and have an addiction to school supplies.

Kindergarten is a year full of discovery, growth and endless possibilities. In our classroom we will learn to be a good friend, explore reading, writing, math, science, art and so much more. We will learn, play and grow together! I look forward to getting to know each of you and instilling a love of learning in each of your children.

 Mrs. Lamperti
